

Annual Dinner 2006

Last year, those of you who were lucky enough to attend the annual dinner will remember the spectacle provided by the opera singers masquerading as waiters. This year the annual dinner will provide an even greater spectacle. Do not miss it!

Taking advantage of holding the conference in Dublin, the birthplace of Guinness, where better to enjoy the true hospitality of such a great city than at the Guinness Storehouse? Here you will be welcomed by entertainment to treat all the senses, discover the history and secrets of how the black nectar is made and enjoy breathtaking views from the Gravity Bar.

Later, enjoy a sumptuous 3-course dinner with entertainment throughout followed by the annual prize giving in the unique style of the current president, Mr Pat Magee as he steps down from office.

Although as usual we would like gentlemen to wear a dinner suit, you might like to consider wearing a spotted bow tie to fit in with the mood of the event.

Tickets for the annual dinner will be sold on a strictly first come first served basis and we advise booking early to avoid disappointment.
